

Final Test — B2 Exit Check

The end-of-course check on all eight modules, taken on the last day, which is also a celebration. It shows each learner what they can now do in English: tell a layered story, argue a case and handle push-back, switch between formal and informal English, follow fast natural speech, write a formal email and a balanced argument, and use the precision grammar of B2. It also gives you the evidence for the next step: Advanced English (C1), C1 with a review plan, another round of B2 with more support, or a specialist track (IELTS or Business English). It is never a pass/fail verdict on a person.

 ~60 min written

+ 8-10 min interview each

Written /85 • Speaking /15 • Total /100

Covers Modules 1-8

FRAME IT AS "SHOW WHAT YOU CAN DO"

By Class 26 your learners have met you 25 times, and yesterday they held a structured debate. Use that:

"Thirteen weeks ago we were working on the past perfect. Yesterday you argued a case, conceded a point, and won the room, all in English!" Do every example item together, keep the room calm and unhurried, and plan the celebration so it happens whatever the scores are. Every learner gets a certificate of attendance. The test decides the next class, not who gets to celebrate.

RUNNING CLASS 26 (90 MIN)

STAGE	TIME	INTERACTION	PROCEDURE
Welcome & set-up	5 min	T-S	Greet everyone. Remind them: skim the questions first. Papers go out face down, and learners write their names.
Part 1 • Listening	15 min	T-S	Whole class. Give 30 seconds to read each section's questions, then read each script on the teacher pages twice .
Parts 2-5 • written	45 min	S	Individual work. Suggest a pace on the board: Parts 2-3 about 13 minutes, Part 4 about 12, Part 5 about 20. Interviews run at the same time at a side table (or in the hallway). Call learners one by one for about 9 minutes each, which is 4-5 learners. Start with learners who finish Part 3 quickly. If a volunteer or co-teacher is free, they supervise the room. If not, sit where you can see everyone.

Break	5 min	—	Collect papers. Set out snacks if your program allows.
Remaining interviews + celebration	20 min	S-S · T-S	Finish one or two more interviews while the class makes a "Now I can..." wall: each learner writes three things they can do now on sticky notes ("I can concede a point and still win the argument."). Then certificates, a one-sentence plan from each learner in the future perfect ("By this time next year, I'll have..."), a class photo if everyone agrees, and how to join Advanced English (C1) or a specialist track. With more than 6–7 learners, start interviews in the second half of Class 25 while groups prepare their debates, or book short one-to-one slots in the following week. Never shorten an interview below 8 minutes to fit everyone in; move it instead.

◆ YOU NEED

- ◆ One learner paper each (the middle section of this pack)
- ◆ Teacher pages: listening scripts, the interview script, the long-turn cards, discussion statements and role-play cards (cut), and one interview grid per learner
- ◆ The key and rubrics: assessment/assessment-key.html
- ◆ Certificates, sticky notes, and a timer

◆ WHAT EACH PART CHECKS

- ◆ Listening /15: a persuasive talk; a fast, informal conversation with vague language; choosing the best reply
- ◆ Words & phrases /15: word formation, formal vocabulary, and the right phrase for the situation
- ◆ Grammar /20: one item for each main structure in Modules 1–6
- ◆ Reading /15: a magazine article + a formal notice
- ◆ Writing /20: a formal inquiry email + a balanced argument essay (150–180 words)
- ◆ Speaking /15: an individual interview with a long turn, a discussion with push-back, and a register role-play

LITERACY-ADAPTED VERSION

Same paper, different delivery. Read all instructions and items aloud, enlarge the paper, and give extra time or split it over Classes 25 and 26. Parts 2–3: read the choices aloud and accept a spoken answer (for word formation, the learner can say the word and you check the form). Part 4: read the article and the notice aloud and ask the questions orally. Part 5: the learner says the email and the argument while you scribe, and you score them with the same checklist and rubric. Mark the paper "Adapted". For these learners, the interview and listening are the main evidence for placement. The key explains how to recommend C1 together with literacy support instead of holding someone back for reading and writing alone.

REAL OR IMAGINED, YOUR SIDE OR AN ASSIGNED SIDE

The interview asks about change, choices, and opinions. For some learners, questions about work and the past touch on a lost profession, a hard journey, or a qualification that isn't recognized here yet. Say before you start: "Real or imagined, no problem. And in the discussion, I'll argue against you on purpose. That's my job today, not my real opinion. You can take any side you like." Never ask follow-up questions about home country, family members who are absent, or immigration status. If a learner says "I'd rather not talk about that," thank them and move to the next stage.

A. Skim the questions first. Then read the article.

Four Days, Same Pay: Does It Work?

When a mid-sized marketing firm in Denver switched to a four-day week last year, many of its clients were skeptical. "Several of them warned us that we would lose business," admits Karen Liu, the company's operations director. "One even asked whether we had lost our minds."

Twelve months later, the results are hard to ignore. Output has stayed the same, sick days have fallen by almost a third, and the company has received three times as many job applications as it did the year before. It is widely believed that the extra day off gives staff time to rest, run errands, and deal with family matters, so they arrive on Monday more focused.

Not everyone is convinced, however. Critics point out that the model works far better in office jobs than in hospitals, schools, or factories, where someone has to be there every day. Others claim that squeezing five days' work into four simply moves the stress around. "Some of my colleagues are exhausted by Thursday," says one designer, who asked not to be named.

Liu accepts that the system isn't perfect. "If we had tried to change everything at once, it would have failed," she says. Instead, the firm ran a three-month trial with one team before rolling it out. Meetings were cut to thirty minutes, and staff were encouraged to block out "quiet hours" for focused work.

So, is this the future of work? Probably not for everyone. But what the Denver experiment does show is that the length of the working week is a choice, not a law of nature. And the more companies experiment, the more we will learn.

Circle Yes, No, or Doesn't say.

1	Some clients thought the four-day week was a risky idea.	Yes	No	Doesn't say
2	The company now produces more work than it did before.	Yes	No	Doesn't say
3	Fewer staff are off sick now.	Yes	No	Doesn't say

- | | | | | |
|---|--|-----|----|-------------|
| 4 | Karen Liu has worked at the company for more than ten years. | Yes | No | Doesn't say |
| 5 | Critics say the model suits all kinds of jobs equally well. | Yes | No | Doesn't say |

Answer the questions.

- 6 According to the article, why do staff arrive on Monday more focused?

7 What did the firm do before changing the whole company?

- 8 Name one change the firm made to meetings or working time.

B. Read the notice from a building manager.

Elevator Replacement - Maple Court Apartments

Dear Residents,

We are writing to inform you that both elevators in Maple Court will be replaced this spring. Work will begin on Monday, April 7, and is expected to take approximately six weeks. By the end of May, the new elevators will have been installed and fully tested.

During this period, one elevator will remain in service at all times, except on Saturday, April 12, when the power will be switched off between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Contractors will be working from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday to Friday. We apologize in advance for any noise or inconvenience.

Residents with limited mobility who may need assistance on April 12 are asked to contact the building office by Friday, April 4, so that help can be arranged. Deliveries of large items, such as furniture, should be scheduled outside working hours.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact us at (555) 014-2290 or office@maplecourt.example.

Sincerely,
Denise Okafor, Building Manager

9 How long is the work expected to take?

10 On which day will no elevator be working?

11 What time do the contractors finish work on weekdays?

12 Will both elevators be out of service for the whole six weeks?

Yes

No

13 Who should contact the building office, and by when?

14 When should residents schedule furniture deliveries?

15 Copy one formal phrase the writer uses to apologize or to invite questions.

Part 5 · Writing

___ / 20

A. Write a formal email of inquiry. (100–120 words)

You saw an advertisement for an evening course in Workplace Communication at Riverside Community College. Write to the course coordinator, Ms. Patel. Say why you are writing and a little about yourself, and ask at least two polite questions (for example, about the dates, the cost, or whether there is a certificate). Keep the whole email formal.

Dear Ms. Patel,

I am writing to inquire about ...

I currently work as ...

Could you tell me ... ?

I was wondering whether ...

I would be grateful if you could ...

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

B. Write a balanced argument. Choose one statement. (150–180 words)

- ◆ ☐ "Employers should pay for their staff to take training courses."
- ◆ ☐ "Everyone should do some volunteer work at least once a year."

Introduce the question, give two arguments for and two arguments against, concede and counter at least one point, and finish with a reasoned conclusion that takes a position. You may argue either side. It doesn't have to be your personal view.

The question we need to consider is ...

The strongest argument in favor is ...

It is often argued that ...

Not only ... but also ...

Admittedly, ... That said, ...

If ..., ... would ...

By far the most important ...

On balance, I would argue that ...

PART 1 • LISTENING SCRIPTS

Give 30 seconds to read each section's questions. Read each script twice at a natural pace, and pause about 10 seconds between readings. Read Part A as a real presentation: pause briefly at each signpost. Read Part B fast and relaxed, exactly as written (gonna, wanna, kinda, dropped sounds): decoding natural speech is what Lesson 8.1 taught. Change your voice or position for each speaker, or read it with a colleague. In Part C, say the number, then the line once per reading, with natural intonation. Don't read the answer choices aloud.

◆ A • ANA'S PRESENTATION (READ THE WHOLE TALK TWICE, THEN GIVE 1 MINUTE)

READ ALOUD

Good morning, everyone. Today I'd like to make the case for a mentoring program for new staff. I'll cover three points: the problem, the evidence, and how we could start.

First, the problem. Last year we lost about a third of our new employees within six months. Every time someone leaves, we pay to recruit and train their replacement. That's not just expensive; it's exhausting for the whole team.

Moving on to the evidence. My sister's company introduced mentors two years ago, and far more new staff stayed: almost nine out of ten are still there. Research suggests that people who have someone to ask in their first weeks settle in much faster.

Now, admittedly, mentoring takes time from our most experienced people, and they're already busy. That said, it's an hour a week, and it saves them hours of fixing mistakes later. It's not a cost; it's an investment.

So, to sum up: I'm proposing a three-month trial in one department, starting with the warehouse team. If it works, we roll it out. If it doesn't, we've lost very little. Thank you, and I'm happy to take questions.

◆ B • JESS AND OMAR (READ THE WHOLE DIALOGUE TWICE, FAST AND INFORMAL, THEN GIVE 1 MINUTE)

Omar: Hey! How'd the cleanup go on Saturday? Were there, like, a lotta people?

Jess: Yeah, it was great! There were thirty-odd people, give or take. Way more than we expected.

Omar: No way! And how long did it go on?

Jess: We started at nine and finished two-ish? We got the park, the parking lot, the creek, that kinda thing.

Omar: I'm sorry I missed it. I wanted to come, but I had to work. They called me in at, like, seven in the morning.

Jess: Ugh, that's the worst. Well, d'you wanna come next time? I'm organizing another one next month, down by the library.

Omar: Definitely. Lemme know the date and I'm gonna put it in my calendar right now.

INDIVIDUAL SPEAKING INTERVIEW · 8–10 MINUTES

Sit beside the learner, not across a desk, with the grid on your lap. Speak at a natural pace, with natural contractions. Ask the core question first. If there's no answer after about 5 seconds, use the support version (rephrase, give a choice, or give a model). If the answer comes easily, add the stretch question. At B2, listen for developed, connected speech: a long turn that has a shape, an argument that survives push-back, and a real change of register in the role-play. Don't correct during the interview. Note one strength and one next step instead. Before stage 1, let the learner choose a long-turn card so they can think about it quietly (about 1 minute) while you do the warm-up.

1 Warm-up: work, study & change

~1½ min

SAY: Hello! How are you today? So, what have you been doing since the course started? Tell me a little about your work or studies. (real or imagined)

SAY: What's something you've had to get used to in the last year or two?

Support: "Is it something at work, at home, or in your town?" · Stretch: "What do you think you'll have achieved by this time next year?" (future perfect) · "How is that different from how things used to be?"

2

Long turn (monologue)

~2½ min

SAY: Now please talk about the card you chose. About one and a half to two minutes. I'll just listen.

Don't interrupt. Time about 1½–2 minutes; stop kindly at 2½. Then ask one follow-up question about the content. Support: if they freeze, ask "What happened first?" or "What's your main point?" then "Can you give me an example?" · Stretch: "What would have happened if...?" or "Some people would say the opposite. What would you say to them?" Listen for a clear shape (hook or roadmap, development, a landed ending), narrative tenses, and signposting.

3

Discussion with push-back

~2½ min

Read one discussion statement below. Whatever the learner says, take the other side and push back twice, politely, so they must defend, concede, or refine their view. Your push-back is a role, not your opinion.

SAY: Here's a statement: [statement]. What's your view? ... Why? ... Hmm, I'm not sure I agree. Surely [counter-argument]? ... But what about [second objection]? ... So, on balance, where do you stand?

Support: "Do you agree or disagree?" then "Why?" and one push-back only · Stretch: "What's the strongest argument on the other side?" · "What would need to change for you to change your mind?" Listen for concede-and-counter (That's a fair point, but... · Admittedly..., but...), hedging (arguably, to some extent), and an emphasis structure (What really matters is...).

4

Register role-play

~2 min

The learner chooses one role-play card. Part 1: you play the formal role. Part 2: switch roles. You are now the learner's friend, and they tell you what happened, informally.

SAY: (Hotel, you are the receptionist) Good afternoon, Grand Riverside Hotel. How may I help you? ... I see. And what name is the reservation under? ... Let me check... Is there anything else I can help you with?

SAY: (Manager, you are the manager) Come in! What can I do for you? ... Next Friday? Hmm, that's a busy day. Why do you need it? ... Could anyone cover your shift?

SAY: (Switch) OK, now I'm your friend. Hey! So, how did it go? What did they say?

Listen for a real shift: indirect questions, I was wondering whether... / Would it be possible to...? in Part 1; contractions, reporting (She said I could..., He suggested...), and relaxed or vague language in Part 2. Support: model the first line ("Good afternoon, I was wondering..."). Stretch: in Part 1, create a small problem ("I'm afraid we're fully booked that night") and see how they negotiate.

5

Closing + your question

~½ min

SAY: Thank you, that's everything. Before you go, do you have a question for me? Anything at all.

◆ LONG-TURN CARDS (CUT • THE LEARNER CHOOSES ONE BEFORE STAGE 1)

LONG TURN • TELL A STORY

A day that didn't go to plan

What were you doing? What had happened before?
What went wrong (or surprisingly right)? How did it end, and what would you do differently?

LONG TURN • MAKE A CASE

A change I'd make at work or in my town

What is the change? Give two reasons and an example. Admit one problem with your idea, then answer it.

LONG TURN • COMPARE

 Then and now

Something that has changed a lot in the last 20 years (shopping, work, communication, your neighborhood). How is it different? Is it better or worse overall?

LONG TURN • LOOK BACK

 A turning point

A decision or a chance meeting that changed things for you (real or imagined). What would your life be like now if it hadn't happened?

◆ DISCUSSION STATEMENTS (YOU CHOOSE ONE • TAKE THE OTHER SIDE)

- ◆ "Companies should stop asking for college degrees for most jobs."
- ◆ "Everyone should have to learn basic first aid."
- ◆ "Working from home is better for employees and employers."
- ◆ "Stores should close on Sundays so that workers can rest."

◆ ROLE-PLAY CARDS (CUT • THE LEARNER CHOOSES ONE)

REGISTER • FORMAL → INFORMAL

 Change a hotel booking

You booked a room for Friday and Saturday. You need to change it to Saturday and Sunday, and you'd like a quiet room. Call the hotel and ask politely.
Then tell your friend how the call went.

REGISTER • FORMAL → INFORMAL

 Ask for a day off

You need next Friday off for an appointment. Ask your manager politely, explain why, and offer a solution (for example, swapping a shift).
Then tell your friend what your manager said.

INTERVIEW SCORING GRID

Score each criterion 0–3: 0 = no response • 1 = Not yet B2 • 2 = B2 • 3 = B2+ (strong). Descriptors are in the assessment key. Total /15. Print one per learner.

Learner: _____ Date: _____ Long turn: _____ Role-play: ☐ Hotel ☐
Manager ☐ Adapted

CRITERION	WHAT TO LISTEN FOR	SCORE (0–3)
Task & coherence	A long turn with a clear shape and relevant detail; a viewpoint defended with reasons, advantages and disadvantages; a reasoned position at the end of the discussion; both parts of the role-play completed

CRITERION	WHAT TO LISTEN FOR	SCORE (0-3)
Range & register	Enough language to explain and argue without much searching; linkers, emphasis, hedging; a clear shift from formal (indirect questions, Would it be possible...?) to informal (contractions, reporting, vague language)
Accuracy	Narrative tenses; conditionals (third and mixed); past modals; passives and reporting verbs; future perfect/continuous; comparison; indirect questions. Errors don't cause misunderstanding and are often self-corrected
Interaction	Concedes and counters when you push back; asks for clarification; keeps the role-play going and handles a small problem; asks you a real question at the end
Pronunciation & fluency	Fairly even tempo with few long pauses; clear stress on key words; weak forms and linking; intonation that sounds polite in the formal role and relaxed in the informal one
Total /15 · Went well: _____ · Next step: _____

AFTER THE TEST

Score with the key and put written + speaking on the placement summary. Tell each learner their next step privately and kindly before they leave, or at a short one-to-one in the following week. Never read scores aloud. The key's "grade to outcome" table shows who is ready for Advanced English (C1), who goes on with a review plan, who should repeat B2 with support, and who might be better served by the IELTS or Business English tracks.
